Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 24 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Early brighter spells. Turning cloudy with showers later.

Today:
A fine morning, with some brighter or sunny spells. Cloud then building by the afternoon, with showers developing and spreading southeast, although some parts staying dry. Rain will be mostly light, although the odd heavier shower is also possible. Maximum temperature 23 deg C (73 deg F).

Tonight:
Any daytime showers easing at first, before cloud then thickens again from the northwest. Outbreaks of rain then spread east during the early hours of Friday. Minimum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Friday:
Cloudy and damp start with outbreaks of rain clearing east through the morning. Some brighter spells developing by the afternoon, but also a risk of heavy showers, perhaps isolated thunderstorms. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Largely fine Saturday, with sunny spells, but heavy showers possible. Cloudier Sunday and Monday, with further showers, perhaps slow moving in places. Chance of thundery downpours, mainly Monday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.